William Jacob Management Continues Perfect Safety Record

William Jacob Management recently completed 311,000 incident free man-hours from January 2007 through January 2010 while working on the Engineering, Procurement and Construction Management and Assistance (EPCMA) portion of the Peregrino Project for Statoil. This contract was associated with the refurbishment of two 3,000 horsepower API modular platform drilling rigs for use in Campos Basin, Offshore Brazil. This is an astonishing feat considering almost forty percent of the man-hours associated with the project were worked in fabrication yards and manufacturing shops. William Jacob Management prides itself on its focus on safety in the workplace and this is another testament to the vigorous approach taken by the company to ensure safe operations in all aspects of their business. Since being founded in August, 2004 William Jacob Management has maintained a perfect safety record and is now closing in on nearly 1 million man-hours worked while achieving a 0.0 incident rate.
